ADVERSARIA.

The busy waterfowl ignore my presence here, And dive and scutter, playing while they feed. A withered oak leaf falls unseasonably To tack and veer, a protodict, Backing and filling on this mimic sea. Whose shore provides the campsite I have picked. Upon the peak of my neglected boat Perches a basking insect wonder. I chuckle inwardly on the merry thought—

What if a fish should come and pull him under? Thus, alas, my "passionless contemplation" deteriorated to characteristic frivolity. No matter. Happiness was mine. And beer. The beer at Tupper's was "good. Tribulation may tell Horace to give over."

Thy scribbling humour check and write no more."

But the "unruly Mole" haunted the pedestrian journalist as well as the classic satirist.

Among the places roundabout I visited were Gilbert

White's, Selborne, an enchanted dreamthorpe still, Cobbett's birthplace, Stella's Cottage, and so on. But I could love Selborne if I had never loved White's writings; and to me every bit of England (save factory towns) is historic. There are lovely woodlands between Farnham and Godalming, especially near a typical village called Elstead. I recall the solemn stillness of the aisles in a forest of pines, for instance. Once well along again, I passed through Shere and Shalford and Chilworth and Abinger Hammer. It was often a name like that on a signboard that made me turn to left or right, so that my progress on the map twists and turns in the most seemingly purposeless way. Yet the purpose was always there, to see some place whose name sounded promising.

Abinger Hammer! It looked very much what you'd expect; and there was a clocktower with the figure of a smith striking a bell with a hammer. But Shere—not even marked on my map, was—well, it looked as if all the houses and gardens had been specially designed and arranged for some Elizabethan pageant. There were no vulgar boys about, no yokels singing the latest chorus about Piccadilly (as, alas! I've heard them in quite rural spots) and the ensemble was rather that of a stage setting than of a live English village of the twentieth century. I encamped just outside Dorking, by another pretty pond or mere, on which newly hatched dabchicks were paddling about with an air of comical earnestness.

Dorking wasn't the sort of town I expected; but it was worth a visit. I turned north through Mickleham to Leatherhead ( quaint, with a delightful clock tower), my attraction being a village called Stoke d'Abernon. That led me to Cobham, where was a pretty inn kept by a Tom Somebody. Now, I have a theory that all Toms are the best of good fellows, so, finding the ale good, I ordered tea also. It was a nice tea, in a nice garden; but I was charged sixpence more than I have ever paid before. I don't believe his name really was Tom, now. It was probably Thomas, and a man christened Thomas is always, some how, a wrong un. Just take a mental census of all the Thomases you've known, and you'll find I'm right.

At Addlestone I talked with an innkeeper who had worked for the Nippon Yusen Kaisha. At Chertsey I found a man from the Orient. I took eighteen hours to go from Chertsey to Staines, so you may guess I did a lot of conversation, with ale, by the way. Yet in three hours I walked from Staines through Egham and Windsor, and Egham had one of the worst hills I met anywhere, save that it had a pub half way up, and a companionable landlord. For another week you may think of me as sketching round about Eton. Then we will resume our little stroll.

The Boss has just had a most amusing letter from one of my output readers, remitting his subscription. He protests against being dunned; as he does not remember getting any previous account rendered. "I am," he writes, "to use the words of the G. man Chancellor when the Americans failed to understand his attitude of sweet reasonableness towards the sinking of the Lusitania, 'I am surprised and grieved.' He says he would have sent the monetary equivalent for beer earlier if we had asked for it, and claims that he even asked once for his bill. "Did you reply to me in the same eager but perfectly gentlemanly spirit in which I approached you? I ask you. Nay, so far from tendering a discreet bill in a discreet, tradesman-like manner, you suddenly come like a shroff in the night and lay down all over my shocked but impotent desk." This paralyzes him with fed-upness, and he only manages to toe the mark in "a p.m., which says: "Your beastly money is enclosed, and please remind me in good time when the present subscription is moribund."

Boss, I said solemnly, a reader like that should not be charged anything, but rather rewarded.

Aye, laddie, he responded, with equal gravity. I only wish I could afford it. I dislike asking these good sorts for money, but many a perfectly sound business is embarrassed by a heavy aggregate of small accounts outstanding. Yet many people seem quite touchy when asked to pay what they owe.

No wonder, said I. I do not like that bald business formula you use. Why not be diplomatic?

How?

Say something like this: "Our Bank positively refuses to credit us with this amount until you actually remit it." That will do for the respectable ones. Fellows like our outport friend you can safely threaten, as follows: "Unless I get in this and other small accounts I shall not be able to raise the remuneration of our Adversarius."

What a good business man went west when I took to journalism! What?

GARRISON FOOTBALL.

KING'S REGIMENTAL LEAGUE.

During the week another series of matches were played on the Murray Parade Ground in connection with the Football League of the 2nd Battalion of the King's (Liverpool) Regiment. Keen rivalry existed between the various units of the Battalion, and some very closely contested matches resulted. The Drums are proud of their distinction of being the only team which had defeated No. 9 Platoon, which with the Machine Gunners "A" team are considered the strongest teams in the league, and the probable winners of the league. The Machine Gunners now remain the only undefeated team in the league, and with one point ahead of the rest and one match in hand, stand a good chance of winning the Regimental Shield.

This week's matches resulted as follows:

THE DISORDERS IN IRELAND.

LONDON, June 1st.
A feeling that the Government may suddenly be faced with the calamitous prospect of the re-conquest of Ireland, overhangs the Irish negotiations.

Mr. Collins's explanations regarding the coalition with Mr. De Valera, has only partially allayed the Government's fears that the agreement threatens the whole basis of the treaty. On the contrary, the Cabinet is no wise satisfied with the draft of the Free State Constitution which was submitted yesterday, and which would confer rights and powers far beyond those contemplated in the treaty.

Sir James Craig adheres to his refusal to meet the southerners and yesterday conferred with members of the Cabinet, after which the Premier suddenly cancelled his holiday to Crivitz.

A day of anxiety closed with a Cabinet meeting at which Lieut. General Curran, Chief of General Staff was present to discuss measures to meet the menacing situation on the Ulster frontier, and also steps to be taken in the event of the treaty being wrecked.

LONDON, June 1st.
There was much revolver shooting in the Peter's Hill district of Belfast this afternoon, several people being injured and taken to the hospital.

The gunmen stopped a motor-driver, shooting him dead, and driving off with his lorry.

A number of fires, believed to be incendiary, broke out and considerable damage was caused.

ANGLO-AMERICAN TARIFF WAR.

LONDON, June 2nd.
The statement that America is contemplating a tariff war against British and foreign shipping, is responsible for a weakness in shipping securities on the Stock Exchange to-day.

Sir Owen Phillips presiding at a meeting of the Royal Steam Packet Company, while not specifying any country, dwelt on the growing tendency of certain nations to discriminate against foreign shipping, by heavier customs dues and a prohibition against participating in coastwise trade.

He said that Great Britain had always stood for the freedom of the seas, but it might be necessary for Great Britain, in self-protection, to reconsider the position. He said an Act of Parliament of 1853, empowered the British Government, at any moment, to take measures to protect the Mercantile Marine from unfair discrimination.

NEW TRADE JOURNAL.

LONDON, June 1st.
With a view to promoting the rehabilitation of European trade, a new periodical will shortly be published at Vienna in English, and under British auspices entitled the European Commercial Paper. It will be supported by most of the European Governments who will specially facilitate the collection of authoritative news.

The journal will not conduct propaganda, and is solely concerned with giving business people facts and figures.

SHANGHAI ELECTRIC CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.

LONDON, June 1st.
At a special meeting of the Shanghai Electric Construction Company, Mr. Donald MacColl, the General Manager, emphasised the urgency of extensions. He said, the great development of Shanghai as a distributing centre, and its still more marvellous development as an industrial centre, had created quite exceptional traffic demands, and if all the proposed extensions could be introduced immediately

KING'S BIRTHDAY.

LOCAL CELEBRATIONS.

THIS MORNING'S PARADE.

To celebrate the birthday of His Majesty the King a military parade was held this morning on the Cricket Ground, the 7th units of the local garrison being inspected by H.R.H. the Governor (Sir Reginald E. Stubbs, K.C.M.G.). The parade was viewed by a large number of naval and military officers and civilians for whom accommodation was provided on the Queen's Road side of the ground. The units composing the parade were in position by 9 a.m. They were as follows:—Royal Navy and Royal Marines, commanded by Commander Gifford, 100 men; Royal Artillery, Capt. Bristol, 50 men; Royal Engineers, Capt. Brown, 50 men; 2nd Bat. The King's Regiment, Major Wright, 200 men; H. K. Volunteer Defence Corps, Capt. Murdoch, 30 men; H.K.S. Royal Garrison Artillery, Capt. Meredith, 100 men; 102nd K. E. O. Grenadiers, Capt. Dodd, 150 men. Lt. Col. Nicholson was in command of the parade. He was accompanied by Major Young.

His Excellency on arrival at the Cricket Ground proceeded to the saluting base. The Union Jack was broken out, National Anthem played and the salute given. His Excellency then inspected the parade. He was accompanied by Capt. Neville, Mr. Eric Rice and two Indian A.D.C.s. At the conclusion of the inspection a Royal Salute of 21 guns was fired from the H.K.S. R.G.A., a feu-de-joie being fired at every seventh round. The men then marched past, the Band of the King's Regiment playing the Naval detachment past the saluting base. Other detachments had their own pipe bands.

The parade was a great success and was impressively carried out.

The ships in harbour are dressed to-day, and the warships fired a salute at noon.

THIS EVENING'S BALL.

YOUNG FORGER JAILED.

CLAIMS GOOD SERVICE.

DURING STRIKER'S STRIKE.

SHANGHAI, June 2.
Thomas Mellows, aged twenty, son of an inspector of the river police was sentenced to six months' jail this afternoon on a charge of forging and uttering a cheque in his father's name. The accused claimed that he had rendered good service in Hongkong during the seamen's strike and had received official acknowledgement.

STABBED IN STREET.

SEQUEL TO CARPENTERS' STRIKE.

A stabbing affair at the corner of Ningpo and Reclamation Streets, Yumati, at 8.15 p.m., yesterday, explains the persistent presence of armed men in the vicinity, in spite of two arrests made by Sergeant Neal earlier in the week.

The victim of the stabbing is a master carpenter with shop at No. 70, Shanghai Street. He was found by the police in a pool of blood, with a stab wound in the groin, and was promptly removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital. At the hospital he made a statement to the police that during the recent carpenters' strike, he had repeatedly been asked to cease work, but refused on the ground that he had a wife and family to support and could not afford to lose several days' pay. On the 29th, 30th and 31st of last month he was threatened with severe injury by three different guildmen but did not take any particular notice of the threats.

Last night he was accosted by a man who, without saying a word, stabbed him in the groin and then ran away in the direction of Temple Street. He was unable to identify his assailant on account of the darkness of that particular part of the street where he was attacked. However he has given the police descriptions of the three men who had threatened him, and investigations are proceeding. After the wounded man had been taken to the hospital, the police searched the vicinity and picked up a blood-stained dagger in Temple Street.

A DANGEROUS DUN.

STABS DEFAULTING DEBTORS.

Two Shanghai Street shoemakers owed a Money Loan Association some money. Last night the head of the Association went to the shop and demanded payment at once. When the shoemakers said they had no money, the man became violently angry, and picking up a sharp knife used for cutting leather attacked the shoemakers inflicting ugly wounds on both. One man was cut in the buttock and the other in the arm. Fists of the shop interfered and disarmed the assailant who was detained until the police arrived, when he was taken into custody. The wounded men are now in the Kwong Wah Hospital. Inspector Willis formally charged the assailant before Magistrate Fraser this morning and obtained a week's remand.

CHAMBERLAIN'S PAIN BALM.

A touch of rheumatism, or a twinge of neuralgia, whatever the trouble is, Chamberlain's Pain Balm drives away the pain at once and cures the complaint quickly. First application gives relief. When a bottle of it is kept in the house the pain of burns and scalds may be promptly relieved, cuts and bruises quickly healed and swellings promptly reduced. In fact, for the household it is just such an essential as every family should be provided with. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

"TIRED OF LIFE."

WOULD BE SUICIDE.

CHARGED HER MIND.

"Tired of life," a Chinese girl decided on Thursday to end all by drowning herself. She went to the Pottinger Street wharf to carry out this resolve, but when she had got to the bottom step and was about to take the plunge into the water her courage failed her, and she raised an hysterical cry of "save life." A constable on duty in Connaught Road central hurried to the spot. The girl was standing with water up to her waist. The constable dragged her back to safety. She was taken to the Central Police Station where she admitted that she had intended to commit suicide, but the sight of the deep water had unnerved her. She said that she was tired of life on account of constant ill-treatment at the hands of her mother because she refused to recognise her stepfather. She was severely censured by the Inspector and ordered to return home with the constable.

Everett R. Peacock, former president of the Milwaukee Irving Bank, at Chicago, charged with defalcation of approximately $300,000, has implicated Miss Clara Rahn, his former secretary. She signed fictitious names to checks to cover manipulations of Peacock, it is alleged. Albert H. Sporleder, who succeeded Peacock as president of the institution, is held by police. He is alleged to have confessed that he knew of Peacock's alleged defalcations, but remained silent because Peacock said he would restore the funds.

PEPS

THE REMEDY YOU BREATHE!

For Throat, Chest & Lungs

THE Peps treatment solves the problem hitherto only met by a costly visit to the hill country or to some Alpine pine-forest resort—of applying nature's most powerful healing agent direct to the actual organs affected in cases of coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Peps are the true breathable remedy. In handy compact form, Peps bring the potent healing and lung-strengthening virtues of pine-forest air into every home. As a Peps tablet dissolves in the mouth, it instantly fills the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs with powerful healing and germicidal fumes.

This air-like medicine is at once soothing and comforting and it is breathed direct to the affected and weakened parts. Dangerous disease germs that have attacked the lining membrane of the throat and breathing passages are quickly exterminated. At the same time sore, inflamed tissues are healed, strengthened and protected, breathing is made easy, chest tightness and wheeziness are ended.

WHY SWALLOW DANGEROUS DRUGS?

The Peps direct method of treatment is thus different, and infinitely more effective than the old practice of swallowing dangerous drug-laden mixtures and syrups into the stomach. Peps are the healthiest, safest and most successful remedy ever discovered for treating ailments of the breathing organs, and being absolutely free from harmful narcotics and sedatives. Peps are just as suitable for children as for adults and old-folk. Get a bottle of Peps to-day!
